First Ashada Friday atop Chamundi Hill...

Devotees line up to have darshan of Goddess Chamundeshwari

Mysuru, July 1 (MTY&DM)- Amidst clear skies and bright sunshine, thousands of devotees thronged Chamundeshwari Temple atop Chamundi Hill this morning on the first Ashada Friday that fell on the first day of the Ashada month of July. The Hill temple was opened for devotees after a gap of two years owing to COVID pandemic, much to the delight of devotees who were seeking to have darshan of the deity in all eagerness.

The special pujas and rituals associated with Ashada Friday, began as early as 3 am, with the performance of Mahanyasapoorvaka Rudrabhisheka, Abhisheka, Archane, Mahamangalarathi etc. Though the devotees had lined up before the temple in the wee hours, they were allowed entry to the temple after 5.30 am after all the rituals were performed.

The entry to the temple was divided into three categories — Dharma Darshana (free entry), Rs. 50 and Rs. 300 tickets for special entry and there were separate lines for each category. The Police had made elaborate arrangements to prevent crowding before the temple, by barricading the entire area as a regulatory measure.

The devotees coming by road and hill steps, were asked to walk on the road behind the Hill Temple to reach Mahabaleshwara Temple, from where the lines were formed. The authorities had made necessary arrangements to ensure that all devotees get darshan in an orderly and organised manner.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

We live in a culture where romantic and erotic love is overemphasised. The movies run amok in portraying it as the only way to live in happiness and ecstasy. Novels highlight it as a magic potion, forming the central theme in most story lines. Poetry is filled with its glory and art is rampant in bringing it to the forefront. While there may be some excitement in loving and being loved romantically, the sacred scriptures of all faiths ascribe to the fact that the ultimate love which we mortals ought to go after is the love for God. For, it is only when we nurture love for God can we fathom, digest and emulate the virtues of divinity that will help us cope with the futility of our human passions.

When love for God is developed it helps us change our direction. By our nature we tend to sin, doubt and remain selfish. If we are to change our direction a higher love that will give us a higher power and certitude is needed. Besides love for God will foster love for our fellow human beings. When love for God enters our lives, it transforms us. Before this love we act in our own selfish ways; but once we fall in love with God, we begin to act in His ways; and this will transform us from mere creatures of God to real children of God.

This higher love is the love that exists in the heart of every missionary and saint who goes beyond himself in love for God and his fellow human being who is in need. It is a kind of a supernatural love that helps him to denounce selfish motives and to remain chaste. This higher love is available to all of us. We will do well to fall in love with this higher love and discover, to our strength, the kingdom of God dwelling within us.

Traffic violations: Use technology

Sir,

Recently I read with interest a news about installation of cameras in Bengaluru which can read the name-plate of the vehicle from 100 mts distance itself for various traffic violations. This seems a good move by the Traffic cops to directly handle the traffic offenders and to clear traffic violation fines due earlier.

While there is a lot of debate going on in this regard, I would like to suggest the Government that whenever the vehicles are registered at the concerned RTO, their Aadhaar card is also required. Since this Aadhaar number is linked to the bank accounts also, a thinking may be done that whenever such traffic violations are committed by the offenders, immediately with the help of these cameras, after tracking the registration number of the vehicle, the antecedents of the owner can be ascertained and through a special software made, the traffic fine can be directly deducted from the respective bank account of the offender.

This will certainly send a strong signal to such habitual offenders and also may avoid unnecessary stopping of vehicles by the Traffic Police and harassment to the travelling public.

With the technology at its peak in many aspects, will someone think on these lines ?

Villagers carry pregnant woman for 8 kms to reach Hospital

Hanur, July 1 (Somu)- At a time when the nation is celebrating the 75th year of independence (Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav), a pregnant woman in a tribal hamlet of Hanur taluk in Chamarajanagar district, who went into labour on Wednesday night, was physically carried by her family and other villagers in a contraption made out of a blanket as the village lacked cell phone connectivity and also had no transport access, which goes to explain official apathy.

The villagers of Doddane Tribal Hamlet located in the dense forest of MM Hills range in Hanur taluk carried the pregnant woman identified as Shakuntala in a blanket doli and walked for six hours on Wednesday night covering a distance of 8 kms to reach the Primary Health Centre (PHC) at Sulwadi, which was the nearest hospital.

The villagers reached the Hospital early on Thursday morning and the woman delivered a baby boy at the Hospital sometime later.

The villagers were forced to carry Shakuntala by walk as all their efforts to contact the personnel of Janavana Sarige started recently by the Forest Department failed and also due to poor mobile connectivity network, it is learnt.

According to villagers, the Doddane Tribal Hamlet lacked basic amenities and local transport facilities. Though the Forest Department started Janavana Sarige for the benefit of villagers in the dense forests of M.M. Hills range, it remains inaccessible most of the times and as such they are forced to walk miles traversing through rough paths, even in case of medical emergencies or any other exigencies.

Meanwhile, Hospital sources said that both the mother and baby were healthy.

Life in partitioned Punjab revisited

A month back Sujata Rajpal, writer and a home-maker who contributes articles and interviews of VIPs for Star of Mysore, gave me a book of modest size, in English of course, saying 'read it and let me know.' So here I am.

The book 'The Life I Saw' is an autobiography of a Punjabi lady Sharda Gulati, migrated to Indian side of divided Punjab from Pakistan side. And she was fortunate to be the daughter of an MLA of Sargodha of undivided Punjab. The advantage could be seen in the book where her crossing the border was safe and smooth compared to what I have read about the partition and the horrors of looting, rape and killings of millions of people — one may read the best-seller book 'Freedom At Midnight' by Larry Collins and Dominique Lapierre to learn about the biggest mass slaughter in the history of the world. Many books were written so also novels based on the partition like Khushwant Singh's 'Train to Pakistan.'

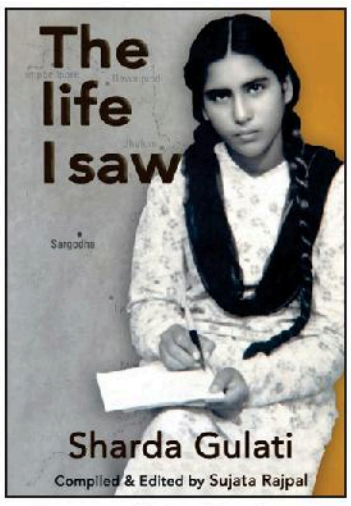
Another book that partly dealt with partition I read was 'Beyond the Lines', the autobiography of the famous journalist-columnist Kuldeep Nayyar. He writes about the difficulties and betrayal suffered by his family and friends following partition while crossing over to India from Pakistan side where they were living for centuries.

I did not find Sharda Gulati or her father facing that kind of danger, risk, betrayal or difficulties in crossing the border and thereafter. In fact, her father became a Minister in the truncated Punjab. As such the autobiography makes a straightforward reading of a person's life and career in Government service — a smooth family journey of schooling, Government job, marriage, raising children (three daughters including Sujata Rajpal), retirement, old age...life goes on for her. The life she saw was a good life as recorded in the book. There is not much for a reader to get sympathetic, emotional or ecstatic about events and situations the author narrates.



However, the book is a treasure house of information about what life was in undivided Punjab with Hindus, Sikhs, Muslims and Christians living peacefully individually or as a community.

Reading about this aspect of life described in the book I was wondering, 'hell, if that was the good, harmonious life they were leading, what was the heavenly purpose of this division and migration on the basis of religion?'

The book opens with a chapter titled, 'My Childhood' and mentions of a 'filmi drama' following author's birth. She had two sisters and those times having daughters was a curse for parents. Well, no different, in most families, even now. Let it be.

The author Sharda Gulati writes that her father's best friend was Ram Piara Lal, an advocate who had a son. Incidentally when Sharda's mother was expecting her arrival to the family, Ram Piara Lal's wife too was expecting her second child. It happened that their delivery dates were just about 12 hours apart.

Advocate's wife gave birth to a baby boy in the morning of March 3, 1935, their second son. In the same evening Sharda's mother delivered her third daughter, that is Sharda. Advocate Lal takes his new-born son to his friend's house and tries to exchange the babies. Naturally, Sharda's father was shocked and protests. But his friend Lal says in hushed voice: 'No one yet knows about the birth of these babies. I already have a son and you have two daughters. You take my son and I take your daughter. Tomorrow we will declare to everyone accordingly.'

However, Sharda's father laughed, refusing the offer and took back the child (Sharda) saying: 'I highly appreciate your sacrifice but it does not matter to me if I have a son or a daughter. Both are equal.'

Sharda Gulali writes: 'When I think of Ram Piara Lal, I wonder how could anyone sacrifice his most beloved possession for the sake of a friend. 'I guess, which is why the saying 'a friend in need is a friend indeed.'

Be that as it may, Sharda's family is not only educated but has also made sacrifices for the freedom of the country, going to jail, facing hardship and denials as a result. But it is sad that the land, for the freedom of which he and his family fought and suffered, was not theirs' anymore when the freedom really came. It went to Pakistan.

The author does her MA and gets a government job in the Public Relations Department of Punjab government — as she writes, courtesy the then Chief Minister of Punjab Sardar Partap Singh Kairon (Nehru's favourite CM!). She joins as the District Publicity Supervisor. She never looks back and retires as DPRO (District Public Relations Officer). Her work experience here was similar to my friend K. Vijaykumar's, who had retired as the Jt. Director of Information and Publicity, Government of Karnataka. Her journey, as I mentioned, continues with normal human problems along the way.

The book was compiled and edited by Sujata Rajpal, her daughter, a commendable effort. And then what is her message? Here it is at the end of the book:

"At 87, I feel the two most valued things in life are good health and strong family bonding. Both can't be taken for granted, and need to be nurtured with patience, love and care."

The book is a good read, specially to the Punjabi diaspora who have not seen, experienced or heard of what life and times were before and after Punjab's division following independence.

No stock of COVID vaccine 2nd dose for children

Mysuru, July 1 (SPN&KS) - Children between 12 to 15 years, who have been administered with the first dose of COVID -19 vaccine about a month ago have to wait for their 2nd dose of the vaccine as there is no stock of it as of now.

"My daughter is studying in the 7th standard at a private school and as per the Government instruction, she has been administered with the first dose of COVID-19 vaccine more than a month ago. Now, we are receiving messages from the Health Department to get her administered with the 2nd dose. But when we went to the Primary Health Centre (PHC) at T.K. Layout and enquired about the 2nd dose, they said that the vaccine 2nd dose for children between 12 and 15 years is out of stock and they would inform us as soon as the stocks arrive," said a parent from Ramakrishnanagar 'I' Block.

The parent also said that the health staff at the PHC asked us to have patience as the vaccine would be administered at the school itself. "We enquired about the 2nd dose of COVID Vaccine for two to three more times, but it is still not available. Children, who have taken the first dose, are now facing problems to take the second dose as it is not available," the parent said.

Meanwhile, an officer at the Health Department told SOM that COVID Vaccine for children between 12 and 18 years is being given in their respective schools in the presence of Department of Public Instruction staff. The second dose of the vaccine will be available in a few days, the officer added.

"Students between 12-15 years and 16-18 years have been administered with the first dose and about 82 percent of the students have been administered with the second dose. The remaining students will be administered with the 2nd dose in a few days and parents have to co-operate till then."

Devotees line up to have darshan of Goddess Chamundeshwari

Mounted Police regulating crowd atop Chamundi Hill this morning.

The Police had installed CCTV cameras at vantage, strategic and other key points in order to keep a constant vigil on suspicious movements and to prevent crimes such as pick-pocketing, robbery, chain -snatching etc.

After having darshan of the deity, most of the devotees walked to the multi-level parking lot, where the City's Chamundeshwari Seva Samithi had organised distribution of special Horlicks Mysore Pak as Prasadam and Annadana. The Samithi has been distributing Prasada to the devotees for the past 18 years.

Free bus service

As all types of private vehicles were banned entry to the Hill on Ashada Friday, the KSRTC had deployed 50 buses to ferry devotees free from Lalitha Mahal Helipad grounds to the Hill temple.

The devotees, after arriving at the Helipad, were asked to park their vehicles at an 18-acre plot adjacent to the ground, where the authorities had marked separate parking lots for two-wheelers, three-wheelers, four-wheelers and other classes of vehicles.

Before boarding the waiting KSRTC buses, all the devotees were checked for two doses of COVID vaccination, which data is recorded in their respective cell phones.

Those who had not taken two doses, were asked to produce RT-PCR test negative report of less than 72 hours.

RT-PCR tests on the spot

The Health Department had set up booths for conducting spot RT-PCR tests on devotees who failed to produce vaccine certificate or negative reports.

Many return disappointed

Many devotees, especially from rural areas who were either unaware of COVID vaccination check or failed to bring along their cell phones, had to return a disappointed lot.

Also, a good number of devotees did not turn up for the first Ashada Friday as false rumours on mandatory production of Aadhar card had spread among villagers.

Though thousands of devotees took part, in general, the number of devotees for the first Ashada Friday was less than what the authorities had anticipated, according to sources.

A large posse of Policemen, including Mounted Police, was deployed as a security measure all round the Hill temple.

MLAs S.A. Ramdas and G.T. Devegowda and MLC A.H. Vishwanath were among the elected representatives from the city who had darshan of the deity on this auspicious day today.

The second Ashada Friday falls on July 8, the third on July 15 and the fourth and last one on July 22. The Chamundeshwari Vardhanti will take place on July 20.

Annadana was arranged for devotees at Dasoha Bhavana atop Hill.

NATIONAL DOCTORS DAY TODAY

A tribute to Bharat Ratna Dr. Bidhan Chandra Roy

By Dr. B.V. Rajagopal
Past National Vice-President of Indian Medical Association

National Doctors' Day is observed in our country on 1st July every year. This was introduced by Indian Medical Association (IMA) in the year 1991 to mark the birth and honour the contributions of the renowned Physician and former West Bengal Chief Minister Dr. Bidhan Chandra Roy (B.C. Roy) and to recognise the services being rendered by our medical community.

Bidhan Chandra Roy was born in the year 1882 at Patna. His father Prakash Chandra Roy was an Excise Officer and mother Aghorakamini was a social worker. He had two brothers and two sisters and Roy was the youngest. He completed his BA in Patna and later obtained Honours in Mathematics.

He then moved to Calcutta (now Kolkata) and was selected to pursue Engineering as well as Medicine course. B.C. Roy opted for Medicine and joined Calcutta Medical College. At the entrance of the college he noticed a write up as follows: "Whatever thy hands find to do, do it with thy might." This struck to his mind and he started following it diligently.

After completing his MBBS course in 1909, he managed to go to Britain by ship with hardly Rs. 200 in his hands. At Barthalomew Hospital in London, he applied for permission to take MRCP course but was denied permission. But, his persistence was successful and he got the permission to appear for the examination and he passed both MRCP (as a physician) and FRCS (as a surgeon) examinations within two years. He returned to India in 1911.

In 1911, he joined Provincial Health Service in Bengal and worked hard for the improvement of the society. He was appointed as a teacher in Medical Colleges and became a very efficient and most sought after teacher in three Medical Colleges — Calcutta Medical College,

Dr. Bidhan Chandra Roy

Campbell Medical College and Carmichael Medical College.

Dr. B.C. Roy contested for the post of Mayor in Calcutta Municipal Corporation and won. During his tenure as the Mayor, he was responsible for starting Jadavpur TB Hospital, Victoria College and Hospital, Chittaranjandas Cancer Hospital, Chittaranjan Seva Sadan for Women and Children, Kamala Nehru Memorial Hospital and many small hospitals in mofussil areas.

He was selected as the Vice-Chancellor of Calcutta University and during his regime, he was responsible for starting a few new colleges in the State including Pharmacy Colleges.

In the year 1941, Dr. B. C. Roy was appointed as the Governor of Bengal State. He was in the office for one year and during that short period he brought in a number of improvements in the administrative levels.

Dr. B.C. Roy start Indian Medical Association (IMA) in the year 1928 with a few of his colleagues for which he was the first President for three years. There were only 226 members then and today there are nearly four lakh members who are fully qualified in modern medicine.

Dr. B.C. Roy started Medical Council of India (MCI) and was its President for five years. He brought in strict regulations to medical colleges.

Dr. Roy became active in politics, succeeding Subhas Chandra Bose in 1931 as the Mayor of Calcutta. He joined Mahatma Gandhi's Civil Disobedience Movement, soon becoming his friend and personal physician.

In May 1933, when Gandhiji was undertaking a 21-day fast in Parnakutivin, Poona (now Pune), Roy was by his side and taking care of him.

Dr. B.C. Roy was a close friend of Mahatma Gandhi and had participated in the Dandi March. At one point Gandhiji was a bit indisposed and Dr. Roy tried to give him medicines but Gandhiji refused and told him: "I don't want your medicines for free. Will you give free medicines to all our people in the country?" To which Dr. Roy replied: "Gandhiji, I am not treating you as Mohan Das Karamchand Gandhi, but as a person who represents forty million people of our country." Then Gandhiji agreed to take medicines.

Chief Minister of West Bengal

At the instance of many persons in the Congress Working Committee and Gandhiji's advice, Dr. B.C. Roy contested for the Chief Minister's post in West Bengal and won the election. He served as the CM for 14 years.

When he took over as the CM, the whole State was in utter confusion and chaos. With dedication, devotion and exemplary planning, Dr. Roy brought the conditions under control stage by stage. Five new cities — Kalyani, Durgapur, Bidhan Nagar, Ashoknagar and Habra — were declared open by him. His concern for the poor and also women was greatest and he brought out many reformations.

On July 1, 1962, Dr. B. C. Roy, who was eighty years old, saw a few patients in the morning, came home and recited a few lines from his Brahmo Samaj book and retired. A few hours later he was no more. Dr. B.C. Roy was born was July 1, 1882 and he passed away on July 1, 1962.

In 1961, Dr. B.C. Roy was awarded with Bharat Ratna, the highest civilian award of the country.

In 1976, 'National Dr. B.C. Roy Award' was instituted in his memory for work in the areas of Medicine, Politics, Science, Literature and Arts.

On this Doctors Day, let us all salute this legendary personality of our country.

Laxmi Chandrashekar to stage solo play 'Shakespearana Srimathi'

Shakespeare continues to fascinate scholars all over the world even after a little over four-and-a-half centuries since his birth. The 'Shakespeare Quarterly' alone logs about 4,000 new works on him every year. His birthplace, Stratford-Upon-Avon is said to attract close to 1,25,000 visitors annually.

One of the major attractions of Stratford is the beautiful cottage which belonged to his wife, Anna Hathaway. Though we know very little about Shakespeare or his wife, most Shakespearean scholars have been rather unkind to Anna Hathaway and portrayed her as a rather shrewish, unpleasant woman, simply because she was eight years older than the Bard, and because Shakespeare left her to go to London just a couple of years after marriage. They tend to see Anna behind most of the negative female characters created by Shakespeare.

Did Anna seduce an innocent, teenage Shakespeare and force him into marriage? Was this why Shakespeare used the first opportunity to leave her and run off to London? How did Anna Hathaway bring up 3 children and manage to live alone for over 30 years without a trace of scandal?

A lot of research, undertaken largely by feminist scholars, in recent years has thrown new light on Anna Hathaway's character and her relationship with her husband.

Inspired by the novel 'Mrs. Shakespeare' by Robert Nay, the well-researched work, 'Shakespeare's Wife' by Germaine Greer and Shakespeare's own sonnets, 'Shakespearana Srimathi' takes a refreshing, new look at the Bard's wife.

'Every Shakespeare biography is 5% fact and 95% conjecture,' says a Shakespearean scholar. 'We can assure you that our play has more than 5% truth!' says the team presenting the play. Written by Uday Itagi 'Shakespearana Srimathi', is directed by Vishwaraj Patil and performed by Laxmi Chandrashekar, who is known for her solo performances. Sound design by Gajanana T. Nayak, costumes by N. Mangala, sets by Vishwanath Mandi, Lights by Muddanna Rattehalli and Make-up by Ramakrishna Kannarapadi have enhanced the beauty of the play. The play was premiered at Ranga Shankara on Apr. 22 and 23 to coincide with the day of Shakespeare's birth and death.

One performance has been sponsored by the Mysore Literary Association at 12 noon on Sunday (July 3) at Natana Rangashale in Ramakrishnanagar, 'K' Block, Mysuru. There will be an interaction session with Laxmi Chandrashekar after the show.

Patrons are requested to wear face masks and be seated at the auditorium by 11.50 am.

WORD OF THE DAY

Garrulous

Pronunciation: GAIR-uh-lus.

Meaning: Garrulous can mean "chatty" or "excessively talkative" when describing a person (or even a bird that calls or sings rapidly and constantly), or it can mean "wordy" when referring to a piece of language itself, such as a letter or speech.

Origin: Garrulous is a 17th century Latin borrowing that has its origin in garrīre, meaning "to chatter, talk rapidly." That Latin root is probably imitative in origin—that is, it was coined to imitate what it refers to. English has a number of words that are imitative in origin, among them several others that describe ways of talking, such as babble and chatter.

Example: "Most college presidents I've met are outgoing, garrulous types who enjoy talking with students and faculty." —John Boyle

THE ODD WORD

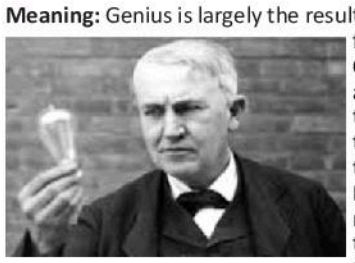
Gamidolatry

Worship of marriage.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Genius is one percent inspiration, ninety-nine percent perspiration

Meaning: Genius is largely the result of hard work, rather than an inspired flash of insight.



Origin: Few proverbial sayings can be attributed to a named individual. In this case, we can name the coiner of the expression - the American inventor Thomas Alva Edison.

Edison is first reported as saying "Genius is one per cent inspiration, ninety-nine per cent perspiration" sometime around 1902, in the September 1932 edition of Harper's Monthly Magazine.

It is impossible to know whether the Harper's journalists were accurate in their attribution, although no one else appears to have uttered the words before they reported them in 1932. Edison may have come up with the neatest line but several others had expressed very similar thoughts before 1902. The Comte de Buffon (a.k.a. George-Louis Leclerc), 1707-88, was attributed with this line in Hérault de Séchelles' Voyage à Montbar, in 1803: Genius is only a greater aptitude for patience.

QUOTE BOX

There's a fine line between genius and insanity. I have erased this line.

— Oscar Levant
